

Scarlett: Lift sex claim wrong on every level

Levelling up: Scarjo and del Toro

SCARLETT JOHANSSON has rubbished claims that she and Benicio del Toro had sex in a lift. It reportedly happened at LA's Chateau Marmont hotel in 2004, but Scarjo, 37, said: 'That was a story that followed me for a long time.'

She told the Skimm's 9 To 5ish podcast that 'the logistics seem so unappealing'. The Avengers star added: 'I'm terrified of being caught, so that made the story much more absurd to me.'

Tom's fans are invited to pay their respects

Celebration: Tom and Kelsey

FANS of The Wanted's Tom Parker are being encouraged to pay their respects outside a private ceremony celebrating his life. The singer died last month aged 33 after battling a brain tumour.

His widow Kelsey said on Instagram that the service will be on Wednesday in Petts Wood, London, adding it would be 'beautiful' for his family and friends if people lined the route to the church in Queensway from 10am.

IT'S BLAZE-R ANATOMY AS SIENNA STEPS OUT

SIENNA MILLER looked the business as she wore a huge blazer for dinner at The Ivy with pal Michelle Dockery. Tonight the actresses, both 40, will be at London's Curzon for the UK premiere of their Netflix drama Anatomy Of A Scandal.

Taking biscuit! Mo sets Alexa off for viewers

CELEBRITY Bake Off contestant Sir Mo Farah cooked up chaos outside the tent - when he activated viewers' Alexa devices.

The Olympic gold medallist was seen in a race against the clock while taking part in a charity edition of the Channel 4 contest on Tuesday night.

Caught in a mad dash during the technical challenge, Sir Mo couldn't figure out how long it would take for his Italian biscuits to bake and joked: 'Can you help me out please, Alexa?'

Little did the sporting legend know Amazon's omnipresent voice aide was indeed listening - in the homes of those watching.

And fans certainly weren't bread-y for their Echo gadgets to suddenly come to life.

Taking to social media, one viewer wrote: 'Did anyone else's Alexa get triggered by Mo then? I wasn't expecting that!'

Another added: 'Never thought I'd see the day when my Amazon Alexa was triggered by Mo Farah.'

The GBBO official Twitter account joined in the chatter, posting: 'Hello to anyone who had their virtual assistant technology activated by Mo Farah just now.'

Joining the 39-year-old athlete in the competition - raising cash for Stand Up to Cancer - were Strictly Come Dancing judge Motsi Mabuse, actress Katherine Kelly and actor-comedian Ben Miller.

The celebs were also challenged to whip up a meringue roulade and, for the showstopper, a childhood-inspired cake, with Miller crowned champion... although perhaps Amazon was the real winner.

Moan behaving badly in X-rated prank

DAD Cudge Cullinan was mortified to hear X-rated moans and groans as he waited at an airport - then found they were coming from his case.

The 64-year-old had to frantically unpack the bag to stop the racket, which had been set up by his prankster son.

Lewis had asked him to put a speaker in the case, claiming he had no room in his own. As they queued to check in at Alicante after a stag do in Benidorm he pressed play on a file on his phone, which was paired with the device and cranked to full blast.

Lewis, 30, of South Ockendon, Essex, said: 'It was typical Essex lads in Benidorm.'

'Everyone in the airport was in fits. When it stopped and played again he was more panicky. He gave it to me but I didn't know how to turn it off.'

His video of the jape had been seen 7,000 times on social media.
